

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

MERCEDES

ACT I

A detachment of French troops bivouacked on the edge of the forest of Covelleda — A sentinel is seen on the cliffs overhanging the camp — The guard is relieved in dumb show as the dialogue progresses — Louvois and Laboissière, wrapped in greatcoats, are seated by a smouldering fire of brushwood in the foreground — Starlight.

SCENE I

LOUVOIS, LABOISSIÈRE

LABOISSIÈRE

Louvois !

LOUVOIS, starting from a reverie

Eh ? What is it ? I must have slept.

LABOISSIÈRE

With eyes staring at nothing, like an Egyptian idol! This is not amusing. You are as gloomy to-night as an undertaker out of employment.

LOUVOIS

Say, rather, an executioner who loathes his trade. No, I was not asleep. I cannot sleep with this business on my conscience.

LABOISSIÈRE

In affairs like this, conscience goes to the rear — with the sick and wounded.

LOUVOIS

One may be forgiven, or can forgive himself, many a cruel thing done in the heat of battle ;

but to steal upon a defenceless village, and in cold blood sabre old men, women, and children — that revolts me.

LABOISSIÈRE

What must be, must be.

LOUVOIS

Yes — the poor wretches.

LABOISSIÈRE

The orders are ——

LOUVOIS

Every soul !

LABOISSIÈRE

They have brought it upon themselves, if that comforts them. Every defile in these infernal mountains bristles with carabines ; every village gives shelter or warning to the guerrillas. The army is being decimated by assassination. It is the same ghastly story throughout Castile and Estremadura. After we have taken a town we lose more men than it cost us to storm it. I would rather look into the throat of a battery at forty paces than attempt to pass through certain streets in Madrid or Burgos after nightfall. You go in at one end, but, diantre! you don't come out at the other.

What would you have? It is life or death with these people.

LABOISSIÈRE

I would have them fight like Christians. Poisoning water-courses is not fighting, and assassination is not war. Some such blow as we are about to strike is the sort of rude surgery the case demands.

LOUVOIS

Certainly the French army on the Peninsula is in a desperate strait. The men are worn out contending against shadows, and disheartened by victories that prove more disastrous than defeats in other lands.

LABOISSIÈRE

It is the devil's own country. The very birds here have no song.¹ Even the cigars are damnable. Will you have one?

LOUVOIS

Thanks, no.

¹ Except in a few provinces, singing-birds are rare in Spain, owing to the absence of woodland.

LABOISSIÈRE, after a pause

This village of Arguano which we are to discipline, as the brave Junot would say, is it much of a village?

LOUVOIS

No; an insignificant hamlet—one wide calle with a zigzag line of stucco houses on each side; a posada, and a forlorn chapel standing like an overgrown tombstone in the middle of the cemetery. In the market-place, three withered olive trees. On a hilltop overlooking all, a windmill of the time of Don Quixote. In brief, the regulation Spanish village.

LABOISSIÈRE

You have been there, then?—with your three withered olive trees!

LOUVOIS, slowly

Yes, I have been there . . .

LABOISSIÈRE, aside

He has that same odd look in his eyes which has puzzled me these two days. (Aloud.) If I have touched a wrong chord, pardon! You have unpleasant associations with the place.

LOUVOIS

I? Oh no; on the contrary I have none but agreeable memories of Arguano. I was quartered there, or, rather, in the neighbourhood, for several weeks a year or two ago. I was recovering from a wound at the time, and the air of that valley did me better service than a platoon of surgeons. Then the villagers were simple, honest folk—for Spaniards. Indeed, they were kindly folk. I remember the old padre; he was not half a bad fellow, though I have no love for the long-gowns. With his scant black soutane, and his thin white hair brushed behind his ears under a skull-cap, he somehow reminded me of my old mother in Languedoc, and we were good comrades. We used now and then to empty a bottle of Valdepeñas together in the shady posada garden. The native wine here, when you get it pure, is better than it promises.

LABOISSIÈRE

Why, that was consorting with the enemy! The Church is our deadliest foe now. Since the bull of Pius VII., excommunicating the Emperor, we all are heretical dogs in Spanish eyes. His Holiness has made murder a short cut to heaven.¹ By poniarding or poisoning a Frenchman, these fanatics fancy that they insure their infinitesimal souls.

LOUVOIS rises

Yes, they believe that; yet when all is said, I have no great thirst for this poor padre's blood. If the maréchal had only turned over to me some other village! No—I do not mean what I say. Since the work was to be done, it was better I should do it. There's a fatality in sending me to Arguano. Remember that. From the moment the order came from headquarters I have had such a heaviness here. (Pauses.) Awhile ago, in a half doze, I dreamed of cutting down this harmless old priest who had come to me to beg mercy for the women and children. I cut him across the face, Laboissière ! I saw him still smiling, with his lip slashed in two. The irony of it ! When I think of that smile I am tempted to break my sword over my knee, and throw myself into the ravine yonder.

LABOISSIÈRE, aside

This is the man who got the cross for sabring three gunners in the trench at Saragossa ! It is droll he should be so moved by the idea of killing a beggarly old Jesuit more or less. (Aloud.) Bah ! it was only a dream, voilà tout—one of those villainous nightmares which run wild over these hills. I have been kicked by them myself many a time. What, the devil ! dreams always go by contraries ; in which case you will have the satisfaction of being knocked on the head by the venerable padre—and so quits. It may come to that. Who knows ? We are surrounded by spies ; I would wager a week's rations that Arguano is prepared for us.

LOUVOIS

If I thought that ! An assault with resistance would cover all. Yes, yes—the spies. They must be aware of our destination and purpose. A movement such as this could not have been made unobserved. (Abruptly.) Laboissière !

LABOISSIÈRE

Well ?

LOUVOIS

There was a certain girl at Arguano, a niece or god-daughter to the old padre — a brave girl.

LABOISSIÈRE

Ah — so ? Come now, confess, my captain, it was the sobrina, and not the old priest, you struck down in your dream.

LOUVOIS

Yes, that was it. How did you know ?

LABOISSIÈRE

By instinct and observation. There is always a woman at the bottom of everything. You have only to go deep enough.

LOUVOIS

This girl troubles me. I was ordered from Arguano without an instant's warning—at midnight—between two breaths, as it were. Then communication with the place was cut off. . . . I have never heard word of her since.

LABOISSIÈRE

So? Did you love her?

LOUVOIS

I have not said that.

LABOISSIÈRE

Speak your thought, and say it. I ever loved a love-story, when it ran as clear as a trout-brook and had the right heart-leaps in it. With this wind sighing in the tree-tops, and these heavy stars drooping over us, it is the very place and hour for a bit of romance. Come, now.

LOUVOIS

It was all of a romance.

LABOISSIÈRE

I knew it ! I will begin for you : You loved her.

LOUVOIS

Yes, I loved her. It was the good God that sent her to my bedside. She nursed me day and night. She brought me back to life. . . . I know not how it happened ; the events have no sequence in my memory. I had been wounded ; I dropped from the saddle as we entered the village, and was carried for dead into one of the huts. Then the fever took me. . . . Day after day I plunged from one black abyss into another, my wits quite gone. At odd intervals I was conscious of some one bending over me. Now it seemed to be a demon, and now a white-hooded sister of the Sacred Heart at Paris. Oftener it was that madonna above the altar in the old mosque at Cordova. Such strange fancies take men with gunshot wounds. One night I awoke in my senses, and there she sat, with her fathomless eyes fixed upon my face, like a statue of Pity. You know those narrow, melting eyes these women have, with a dash of Arab fire in them. . . .

LABOISSIÈRE

Know them? Sacrebleu !

LOUVOIS

The first time I walked out, she led me by the hand, I was so very weak, like a little child learning to walk. It was spring, the skies were blue, the almonds were in blossom, the air was like wine. Great heaven! how beautiful and fresh the world was, as if God had just made it! From time to time I leaned upon her shoulder, not thinking of her. . . . Later I came to know her — a saint in disguise, a peasant-girl with the instincts of a duchess.

LABOISSIÈRE

They are always like that, saints and duchesses — by brevet! I fell in with her own sister at Barcelona. Look you — braids of purple-black hair and the complexion of a newly-minted napoleon. I forget her name.

(Knitting his brows.) Paquita . . . Mariquita?
It was something-quita, but no matter.

LOUVOIS

How it all comes back to me! The wild foot-paths in the haunted forest of Covelleda; the broken Moorish water-tank, in the plaza, against which we leaned to watch the gypsy dances; the worn stone-step of the cottage, where we sat of evenings with guitar and cigarette. What simple things make a man forget that his grave lies in front of him! (Pauses.) There was a lover, a contrabandista, or something — a fellow who might have played the spadassin in one of Lope de Vega's cloak-and-dagger comedies. The gloom of the lad, fingering his stiletto-hilt!

Presently she sent him to the right-about, him and his scowls—the poor devil.

LABOISSIÈRE

Oh, a very bad case !

LOUVOIS

I would not have any hurt befall that girl, Laboissière !

LABOISSIÈRE

Surely.

LOUVOIS

And there 's no human way to warn her of her danger !

LABOISSIÈRE

To warn her would be to warn the village — and defeat our end. However, no French messenger could reach the place alive.

LOUVOIS

And no other is possible. Now you understand my misery. I am ready to go mad.

LABOISSIÈRE

You take the thing too seriously. Nothing ever is so bad as it looks, except a Spanish ragoût. After all, it is not likely that a single soul is left in Arguano. The very leaves of this dismal forest are lips that whisper of our movements. The villagers have doubtless made off with that fine store of grain and aguardiente we so sorely stand in need of, and a score or two of the brigands are probably lying in wait for us in some narrow cañon.

LOUVOIS

God will it so !

LABOISSIÈRE

Louvois, if the girl is at Arguano, not a hair of her head shall be harmed, though I am shot for it when we get back to Burgos !

LOUVOIS

You are a brave soul, Laboissière ! Your words have lifted a weight from my bosom. Without your aid I should be powerless to save her.

LABOISSIÈRE

Are we not comrades, we who have fought side by side these six months, and lain together night after night with this blue arch for our tent-roof ? Dismiss your anxiety. What is that Gascogne proverb ? — “ We suffer most from the ills that never happen.” Let us get some rest ; we have had a rude day. . . . See, the stars have doubled their pickets out there to the westward.

LOUVOIS

You are right ; we should sleep. We march at daybreak. Good-night.

LABOISSIÈRE

Good-night, and vive la France !

LOUVOIS

Vive l'Empereur !

LABOISSIÈRE walks away humming

"Reposez-vous, bons chevaliers !"

LOUVOIS, looking after him

There goes a light heart. But mine . . . mine is as heavy as lead.

SCENE II

LYRICAL INTERLUDE

Soldiers' Song

While this is being sung behind the scenes the guard is relieved on the cliffs. Louvois wraps his cloak around him and falls into a troubled sleep.

The camp is hushed ; the fires burn low ;

Like ghosts the sentries come and go :

Now seen, now lost, upon the height

A keen drawn sabre glimmers white.

Swiftly the midnight steals away —

Reposez-vous, bons chevaliers !

Perchance into your dream shall come

Visions of love or thoughts of home ;

The furtive night wind, hurrying by,

Shall kiss away the half-breathed sigh,

And softly whispering, seem to say,

Reposez-vous, bons chevaliers !

Through star-lit dusk and shimmering dew

It is your lady comes to you !

Delphine, Lisette, Annette — who knows

By what sweet wayward name she goes ?

Wrapped in white arms till break of day,

Reposez-vous, bons chevaliers !

In the course of the song the stage is gradually darkened and the scene changed.

ACT II

Morning — The interior of a stone hut in Arguano — Through the door opening upon the calle are seen piles of Indian corn, sheaves of wheat, and loaves of bread partly consumed — Empty wine-skins are scattered here and there among the cinders — In one corner of the chamber, which is low-studded but spacious, an old woman is sitting in an arm-chair and crooning to herself — At the left, a settle stands against the wall — In the centre of the room a child lies asleep in a cradle — Mercedes — Padre Joséf entering abruptly.

SCENE I

MERCEDES, Padre JOSÉF, then URSULA

Padre JOSÉF

Mercedes ! daughter ! are you mad to linger so ?

MERCEDES

Nay, father, it is you who are mad to come back.

Padre JOSÉF

We were nearly a mile from the village when I missed you and the child. I had stopped at your cottage and found no one. I thought you were with those who had started at sunrise.

MERCEDES

Nay, I brought Chiquita here last night when I heard the French were coming.

Padre JOSÉF

Quick, Mercedes ! there is not an instant to waste.

MERCEDES

Then hasten, Padre Joséf, while there is yet time. [Pushes him towards the door.]

Padre JOSÉF

And you, child?

MERCEDES

I shall stay.

Padre JOSÉF

Listen to her, Sainted Virgin! she will stay, and the French bloodhounds at our very heels!

MERCEDES, glancing at Ursula

Could I leave old Ursula, and she not able to climb the mountain? Think you — my own flesh and blood!

Padre JOSÉF

Ah, cielo ! true. They have forgotten her, the cowards ! and now it is too late. God willed it — santificado sea tu nombre ! (Hesitates.) Mercedes, Ursula is old — very old ; the better part of her is already dead. See how she laughs and mumbles to herself, and knows naught of what is passing.

MERCEDES

The poor grandmother ! she thinks it is a saint's day. [Seats herself on the settle.]

Padre JOSÉF

What is life or death to her whose soul is otherwhere ? What is a second more or less to the leaf that clings to a shrunken bough ? But you, Mercedes, the long summer smiles for such as you. Think of yourself, think of Chiquita. Come with me, child, come!

URSULA

Ay, ay, go with the good padre, dear. There is dancing on the plaza. The gitanos are there, mayhap. I hear the music. I had ever an ear for tambourines and castanets. When I was a slip of a girl, I used to foot it with the best in the cachuca and the bolera. I was a merry jade, Mercedes — a merry jade. Wear your brodered garters, dear.

MERCEDES

She hears music. (Listens.) No. Her mind wanders strangely to-day, now here, now there. The gray spirits are with her. (To Ursula gently.)

No, grandmother, I came to stay with you, I and Chiquita. [Crosses over to Ursula.]

Padre JOSÉF

You are mad, Mercedes. They will murder you all.

MERCEDES

They will not have the heart to harm Chiquita, nor me, perchance, for her sake.

Padre JOSÉF

They have no hearts, these Frenchmen. Ah, Mercedes, do you not know better than most that a Frenchmen has no heart?

[Points to the cradle.]

MERCEDES, hastily

I know nothing. I shall stay. Is life so sweet to me? Go, Padre Joséf. What could save you if they found you here? Not your priest's gown.

Padre JOSÉF

You will follow, my daughter ?

MERCEDES

No.

Padre JOSÉF

I beseech you !

MERCEDES

No.

Padre JOSÉF

Then you are lost !

MERCEDES

Nay, padrino, God is everywhere. Have you not yourself said it? Lay your hands for a moment on my head, as you used to do when I was a little child, and go—go! [Kneels.

Padre JOSÉF

Thou wert ever a wilful girl, Mercedes.

MERCEDES

Oh, say not so; but quick—your blessing, quick!

Padre JOSÉF

À Dios. . . .

He makes the sign of the cross on Mercedes' forehead, and slowly turns away. Mercedes rises, follows him to the door, and looks after him with tears in her eyes.
Then she returns to the middle of the room, and sits on a low stool beside the cradle.

He is my old friend, the good padre. He is getting old, getting old.

MERCEDES

To hear her! and she eighty years last San Miguel's day!

URSULA

What day is it?

MERCEDES, laying one finger on her lips

Hist! Chiquita is waking.

URSULA, querulously

Hist? Nay, I will say my say in spite of all.
Hist? God save us! who taught thee to say hist to thy elders? Ay, ay, who taught thee? . . .
What day is it?

MERCEDES, aside

How sharp she is awhile! (Aloud.) Pardon, pardon! Here is little Chiquita, with both eyes wide open, to help me beg thy forgiveness.

(Bends over the cradle.) See, she has a smile for grandmother. . . . Ah, no, little one, I have no milk for thee; the trouble has taken it all. Nay, cry not, dainty, or that will break my heart.

URSULA

Sing to her, nieta. What is it you sing that always hushes her? 'T is gone from me.

MERCEDES

I know not.

URSULA

Bethink thee.

MERCEDES

I cannot. Ah—the rhyme of The Three Little White Teeth?

URSULA, clapping her hands

Ay, ay, that is it !

MERCEDES rocks the child, and sings

Who is it opens her blue bright eye,
Bright as the sea and blue as the sky ? —

Chiquita !

Who has the smile that comes and goes
Like sunshine over her mouth's red rose ? —

Muchachita !

What is the softest laughter heard,
Gurgle of brook or trill of bird,

Chiquita ?

Nay, 't is thy laughter makes the rill
Hush its voice and the bird be still,

Muchachita !

Ah, little flower-hand on my breast,
How it soothes me and gives me rest !

Chiquita !

What is the sweetest sight I know ?

Three little white teeth in a row,

Three little white teeth in a row,

Muchachita !

As Mercedes finishes the song, a roll of drums is heard in the calle. At the first tap she starts and listens intently, then assumes a stolid air. The sound approaches the door and suddenly ceases.

SCENE III

LABOISSIÈRE, MERCEDES, then SOLDIERS

LABOISSIÈRE, outside

A sergeant and two men to follow me !

(Mutters.) Curse me if there is so much as a mouse left in the whole village. Not a drop of wine, and the bread burnt to a crisp—the scélérats ! (Appears at the threshold.) Hulloo !

what is this ? An old woman and a young one — an Andalusian by the arch of her instep and the length of her eyelashes ! (In Spanish.) Girl, what are you doing here ?

MERCEDES, in French

Where should I be, monsieur ?

LABOISSIÈRE

You speak French ?

MERCEDES

Caramba ! since you speak Spanish.

LABOISSIÈRE

It was out of politeness. But talk your own jargon — it is a language that turns to honey on the tongue of a pretty woman. (Aside.) It was my luck to unearth the only woman in the place !

The captain's white blackbird has flown, bag and baggage, thank Heaven ! Poor Louvois, what a grim face he made over the empty nest ! (Aloud.) Your neighbors have gone. Why are you not with them ?

MERCEDES, pointing to Ursula

It is my grandmother, señor ; she is very old.

LABOISSIÈRE

So ? You could not carry her off, and you remained ?

MERCEDES

Precisely.

LABOISSIÈRE

That was like a brave girl. (Touching his cap.)

I salute valor whenever I meet it. Why have all the villagers fled?

MERCEDES

Did they wish to be massacred?

LABOISSIÈRE, shrugging his shoulders

And you?

MERCEDES

It would be too much glory for a hundred and eighty French soldiers to kill one poor peasant girl. And then to come so far!

LABOISSIÈRE, aside

She knows our very numbers, the fox! How she shows her teeth!

MERCEDES

Besides, señor, one can die but once.

LABOISSIÈRE

That is often enough. — Why did your people waste the bread and wine ?

MERCEDES

That yours might neither eat the one nor drink the other. We do not store food for our enemies.

LABOISSIÈRE

They could not take away the provisions, so they destroyed them ?

MERCEDES, mockingly

Nothing escapes you !

LABOISSIÈRE

Is that your child?

MERCEDES

Yes, the hija is mine.

LABOISSIÈRE

Where is your husband — with the brigands yonder?

MERCEDES

My husband?

LABOISSIÈRE

Your lover, then.

MERCEDES

I have no lover. My husband is dead.

LABOISSIÈRE

I think you are lying now. He's a guerrilla.

MERCEDÉS

If he were, I should not deny it. What Spanish woman would rest her cheek upon the bosom that has not a carabine pressed against it this day? It were better to be a soldier's widow than a coward's wife.

LABOISSIÈRE, aside

The little demon ! But she is ravishing ! She would have upset St. Anthony, this one — if he had belonged to the Second Chasseurs ! What is to be done ? Theoretically, I am to pass my sword through her body ; practically, I shall make love to her in ten minutes more, though her readiness to become a widow is not altogether pleasing. (Aloud.) Here, sergeant, go report this matter to the captain. He is in the posada at the farther end of the square.

Exit sergeant. Shouts of exultation and laughter are heard in the calle, and presently three or four soldiers enter, bearing several hams and a skin of wine.

1ST SOLDIER

Voilà, lieutenant !

LABOISSIÈRE

Where did you get that ?

2D SOLDIER

In a cellar hard by, hidden under some rushes.

3D SOLDIER

There are five more skins of wine like this jolly fellow in his leather jacket. Pray order a division of the ~~body~~, my lieutenant, for we are as dry as herrings in a box.

LABOISSIÈRE

A moment, my braves. (Looks at Mercedes significantly.) Woman is that wine good?

MERCEDES

The vintage was poor this year, señor.

LABOISSIÈRE

I mean — is that wine good for a Frenchman to drink?

MERCEDES

Why not, señor?

LABOISSIÈRE, sternly

Yes or no?

MERCEDES

Yes.

LABOISSIÈRE

Why was it not served like the rest, then?

MERCEDES

They hid a few skins, thinking to come back for it when you were gone. An ill thing does not last forever.

LABOISSIÈRE

Open it, some one, and fetch me a glass.
(To Mercedes.) You will drink this.

MERCEDES, coldly

When I am thirsty I drink.

LABOISSIÈRE

Pardieu ! this time you shall drink because I am thirsty.

MERCEDES

As you will. (Empties the glass.) To the King.

LABOISSIÈRE

That was an impudent toast. I would have preferred the Emperor or even Godoy ; but no matter — each after his kind. To whom will the small-bones drink ?

MERCEDES

The child, señor ?

LABOISSIÈRE

Yes, the child ; she is pale and sickly-looking ;
a draught will do her no harm. All the same,
she will grow up and make some man wretched.

MERCEDES

But. señor —

LABOISSIÈRE

Do you hear ?

MERCEDES

But Chiquita, señor — she is so little, only thirteen months old, and the wine is strong !

LABOISSIÈRE

She shall drink.

HERMES

MERCUR

Nb. 10.

LACUSSES

I have said it, save him —

MERCUR

Give it me, then. Enter the queen and child to the child: here.

LACUSSES meeting her sister

Woe to your kind remedies

MERCUR

Nay, it is Chiquita swallows so fast. See! she has taken it all. Ah! so soon, it is a sad thing to have no milk for the little one. Are you content?

LABOISSIÈRE

Yes ; I now see that the men may quench their thirst without fear. One cannot be too cautious in this hospitable country ! Fall to, my children ; but first, a glass for your lieutenant.

[Drinks.]

URSULA

Ay, ay, the young forget the old . . . forget the old.

LABOISSIÈRE, laughing

Why, the depraved old sorceress ! But she is right. She should have her share. Place aux dames ! A cup, somebody, for Madame la Diablesse !

MERCEDES, aside

José-Maria!

One of the men carries wine to Ursula. Mercedes sits on the stool beside the cradle, resting her forehead on her palms. Laboissière stretches himself on the settle. Several soldiers come in, and fill their canteens from the wine-skin. They stand in groups, talking in undertones among themselves.

URSULA rises from her chair

The drink has warmed me to the heart, Mercedes! Said I not there was dancing on the plaza? 'Tis but a step from here. 'T would do these old eyes good to look once more upon the dancers. The music drags me yonder! (Wanderingly.) Nay, take away your hands, Mercedes — a plague upon ye! [Goes out.

LABOISSIÈRE suddenly starts to his feet and dashes his glass on the floor

The child! look at the child! What is the matter with it? It turns livid—it is dying!

Comrades, we are poisoned!

MERCEDES rises hastily and throws her mantilla over the cradle

Yes, you are poisoned! *Al fuego—al fuego— todos al fuego!*¹ You to perdition, we to heaven!

[The soldiers advance towards Mercedes.

LABOISSIÈRE interposing

Leave her to me! Quick, some of you, go warn the others! (Unsheathes his sword.)
I end where I ought to have begun.

MERCEDES tearing aside her neckerchief

Strike here, señor. . . .

¹ To the flames—to the flames—all of you to the flames!

LOUVOIS enters, and halts between the two with a dazed expression ; he glances from Laboissière to the woman, and catches his breath

Mercedes !

LABOISSIÈRE

Louvois, we are dead men ! Beware of her, she is a fiend ! Kill her without a word ! The drink already throttles me — I — I cannot breathe here.

[Staggers out, followed wildly by the soldiers.]

SCENE IV

LOUVOIS, MERCEDES

LOUVOIS

What does he say ?

MERCEDES

You heard him.

LOUVOIS

His words have no sense. (Advancing towards her.) Oh, why are you in this place, Mercedes?

MERCEDES, recoiling

I am here, señor —

LOUVOIS

You call me señor — you shrink from me —

MERCEDES

Because we Spaniards do not desert those who depend upon us.

LOUVOIS

Is that a reproach? Ah, cruel! Have you forgotten —

MERCEDES

I have forgotten nothing. I have had cause to remember all. I remember, among the rest, that a certain wounded French officer was cared for in this village as if he had been one of our own people — and now he returns to massacre us.

LOUVOIS

Mercedes !

MERCEDES

I remember the morning, nearly two years ago, when Padre Joséf brought me your letter. You had stolen away in the night — like a deserter ! Ah, that letter — how it pierced my heart, and yet bade me live ! Because it was full of those smooth oaths which woman love, I carried it in my bosom for a twelvemonth ; then for another twelvemonth I carried it because I hoped to give it back to you. (Takes a paper from her bosom.) See, señor, what slight things words are! (Tears the paper into small pieces, which she scatters at his feet.)

LOUVOIS

Ah!

MERCEDES

Sometimes it comforted me to think that you were dead. Señor, 't is better to be dead than false — and you were false!

LOUVOIS

Not I, by all your saints and mine! It is you who have broken faith. I should be the last of men if I had deserted you. Why, even a dog has gratitude. How could I now look you in the face?

MERCEDES

'T was an ill day you first did so!

LOUVOIS

Listen to me !

MERCEDES

Too many times I have listened. Nay, speak not ; I might believe you !

LOUVOIS

If I do not speak the truth, despise me ! Since I left Arguano I have been at Lisbon, Irun, Aranjuez, among the mountains—I know not where ; but ever in some spot whence it was impossible to send you tidings. A wall of fire and steel shut me from you. Thrice I have had my letters brought back to me—with the bearers' blood upon them ; thrice I have trusted to messengers whose treachery I now discover. For a chance bit of worthless gold they broke the seals, and wrecked our lives ! Ah, Mercedes, when my silence troubled you, why did you not read the old letter again! If the words you had of mine lost their value, it was because they were like those jewels in the padre's story, which changed their color when the wearer proved unfaithful.

MERCEDES

Aquilles!

LOUVOIS

Though I could not come to you nor send to you, I never dreamed I was forgotten. I used to say to myself: "A week, a month, a year — what does it matter? That brown girl is as true as steel!" I think I bore a charmed life in those days; I grew to believe that neither sword nor bullet could touch me until I held you in my arms again. (The girl stands with her hands crossed upon her bosom, and looks at him with a growing light in her eyes.) It was the day before yesterday that our brigade returned to Burgos — at last ! at last ! O love, my eyes were hungry for you ! Then that dreadful order came. Arguano had been to me what Mecca is to the Mohammedan — a shrine to be reached through toil and thirst and death. Oh, what a grim freak it was of fate, that I should lead a column against Arguano — my shrine, my Holy Land !

Mercedes moves swiftly across the room, and kneeling on the flag-stones near Louvois's feet begins to pick up the fragments of the letter. He suddenly stoops and takes her by the wrists.

Mercedes !

MERCEDES

Ah, but I was so unhappy ! Was I unhappy ?

I forget. (Looks up in his face and laughs.) It is so very long ago! An instant of heaven would make one forget a century of hell! When I hear your voice, two years are as yesterday. It was not I, but some poor girl I used to know who was like to die for you. It was not I — I have never been anything but happy. Nay, I needs must weep a little for her, the days were so heavy to that poor girl. And when you go away again, as go you must——

LOUVOIS

I shall take you with me, Mercedes. Do you understand? You are to go with me to Burgos. (Aside.) What a blank look she wears! She does not seem to understand.

MERCEDES, abstractedly

With you to Burgos? I was there once, in the great cathedral, and saw the bishops in their golden robes, and all the jewelled windows ablaze in the sunset. But with you? Am I dreaming this? The very room has grown unfamiliar to me. The crucifix yonder, at which I have knelt a hundred times, was it always there? My head is full of unwonted visions. I think I hear music and the sounds of castanets, like poor old Ursula. Those cries in the calle — is it a merry-meeting? Ah! what a pain struck my heart then! O God! I had forgotten! (Clutches his arm and pushes him from her.) Have you drunk wine this day?

LOUVOIS

Why, Mercedes, how strange you are!

MERCEDES

No, no! have you drunk wine?

LOUVOIS

Well, yes, a cup without. What then? How white you are!

MERCEDES

Quick! let me look you in the face. I wish to tell you something. You loved me once . . . it was in May . . . your wound is quite well now? No, no, not that! All things slip from me. Chiquita — nay, hold me closer, I do not see you. Into the sunlight — into the sunlight!

LOUVOIS

She is fainting!

MERCEDES

I am dying — I am poisoned. The wine was drugged for the French. I was desperate. Chiquita — there in the cradle — she is dead — and I ——— [Sinks down at his feet.]

Louvois, stooping over her

Mercedes! Mercedes!

After an interval a measured tramp is heard outside. A sergeant with a file of soldiers in disorder enters the hut.

SCENE V

SERGEANT and SOLDIERS

1ST SOLDIER

Behold! he has killed the murderess.

2D SOLDIER

If she had but twenty lives now!

3D SOLDIER

That would not bring back the brave Labois-sière and the rest.

2D SOLDIER

Sapristi, no! but it would give us life for life.

4TH SOLDIER

Miséricorde! are twenty——

SERGEANT

Hold your peace, all of you! (Advances and salutes Louvois, who is half kneeling beside the body of the woman.) My captain! (Aside.) He does not answer me. (Lays his hand hurriedly on Louvois's shoulder, and starts.) Silence, there! and stand uncovered. He is dead!
